

ALWAYS Awards - Respect.

Class	Name	Reason
1	Arthur	Arthur has been awarded the Always Award this half term because he consistently shows the value of respect in class. He listens carefully to others, takes turns kindly, and always uses polite language. Throughout the year, Arthur has also shown respect by supporting classmates, following classroom routines, and valuing everyone's ideas, even when they are different from his own. His thoughtful attitude helps create a calm, friendly learning environment for everyone. Arthur sets a wonderful example to others in his class. Well done Arthur, you thoroughly deserve this award!
2	Alyssa	Alyssa is an individual who consistently models so many of our school values, but there is one in particular that defines who she is every day and that value is respect. It doesn't matter if she is in the classroom or playing with her friends out on the playground, her respectful nature always shows. It doesn't matter who she is talking to, whether it is a teacher, a visitor, or a classmate, she treats absolutely everyone with the exact same level of kindness, care, and consideration. She never forgets her manners, always remembering to say please and thank you, and she goes about everything she does in a deeply genuine way. Well done Alyssa, keep being the respectful person you are.
3	Abigail	Abigail is a kind and helpful member of Class 3 who is always respectful of others. She listens intently during lessons, always doing the right thing at the right time. This helps to create the right learning environment for others. If anyone who is sitting near her needs support, Abigail will help them in a respectful and supportive way. Abigail gets on so well with her friends. She never falls out or argues and this must be because she is so gentle and respectful of others. Well done, Abigail!

4	Grace	It is an absolute pleasure to present Grace with this term's Always Award for her outstanding and consistent demonstration of our core value of Respect. The Always Award is reserved for students who embody our school values in everything they do and Grace sets a wonderful example for her peers every day. Whether she is actively listening to her classmates during discussions without interrupting, inviting someone new to join her group on the playground, or showing impeccable manners to all, her kindness and inclusivity shine through. Furthermore, she treats her physical environment with the utmost care by keeping her workspace tidy and looking after school property. Grace, your respectful nature makes our classroom a warmer, safer, and happier place to learn and we are so incredibly proud of you for being such a fantastic role model!
5	Freya	It is a genuine pleasure to present Freya with this half term's Always Award for Respect. Freya demonstrates this value each and every day through the way she treats everyone around her. She is always polite, considerate and quietly thoughtful, showing genuine respect to her classmates, teachers and everyone she meets. Although she has a quiet and calm personality, Freya leads by example through her excellent behaviour, careful listening and willingness to help others whenever they need support. She respects the views and feelings of those around her and helps to create a calm, caring and inclusive classroom where everyone feels valued. What makes this award especially meaningful is that it was voted for by her classmates, which shows just how much they respect and appreciate the kindness and consideration she shows every day. Freya, you are a wonderful role model for the value of respect, and this award is thoroughly deserved. Congratulations!
6	Jack	Jack is a very respectful member of class 6- something which has been noted by other children who also nominated him for this award for the way he respects their opinions and listens carefully in class discussions. He is respectful in his approach to his learning, listening carefully and thinking deeply about the topics we are studying. His contributions are thoughtful, and demonstrate the effort he puts into remembering previous content and discussions in class. Even when a lesson is not Jack's favourite, he shows respect to himself and others by pushing himself out of his comfort zone and joining in. Jack is also respectful in the way he behaves around school, with many other staff members commenting how polite and respectful he has been in encounters they have had with him. Well done Jack, and keep up the hard work!

7	Isabel	Isabel could receive this award over and over again as she models respect daily without fail. Within the classroom, Isabel shows a mature respect for learning by listening intently and always valuing the viewpoints of others. She treats her classmates, teachers and school property with equal care and dignity. What truly stands out about Isabel is her ability to notice when others are struggling. She quietly steps in to offer encouragement, but never expects anything in return. Isabel always demonstrates her polite, kind and helpful nature which provides an excellent role model to those within her class, but also the wider school community. I have also been fortunate to have witnessed Isabel's caring nature away from school during her Dance commitments, where she has offered her support to those younger than herself who may have been anxious about performing for the first time. Isabel is a shining example of what it means to be respectful and so very deserving of the Always Award for Respect. Well done Isabel!
8	Joseph	Joseph is thoroughly deserving of the 'Always Award' for our value of Respect. He consistently models respectful behaviour and shows exemplary self-discipline, even when distractions arise. His focus on the teacher and screen ensures he does not miss learning opportunities and this has a positive impact on the whole class. Joseph is a lovely, kind boy who is always helpful and considerate towards peers and adults. In addition, Joseph demonstrates excellent fairness and inclusion in PE and at playtimes, treating everyone equally and showing mature sportsmanship in both victory and disappointment. Again, this demonstrates Joseph's respectful nature. He also listens carefully, follows guidance promptly and contributes to a calm, productive classroom climate. Joseph's thoughtful actions show that he understands respect as more than good manners; he recognises its role in empathy, cooperation and responsibility. It's a pleasure having you in the classroom, Joseph. Thank you! :)
9	Evie	Evie truly demonstrates the value of respect, not only in the classroom but also all around school. She is polite and helpful; always greeting adults and peers alike with a smile and kind word. She listens attentively in class and can always be counted upon to have followed instructions carefully. Evie is incredibly helpful and has shown that she has the maturity needed for starting secondary school.

		Evie is incredibly talented in her dance and gymnastics, yet does not boast about her achievements. She watches her peers without judgement of their ability and is always encouraging of their attempts too. I have felt so lucky to have taught Evie in her final year of primary school and thank her for all her hard work and positive attitude.
10	Jasmine	Choosing just one winner for the Always Respect Award was incredibly tough this half-term, as so many children in Class 10 have stepped up, ready for their transition into secondary school. However, Jasmine has been a shining example of respect all year long. Towards adults, she is always courteous, listens attentively and consistently does what is asked of her. To her peers, she shows respect by valuing everyone—always celebrating their successes and looking out for their wellbeing when they struggle. Thank you, Jasmine, for being an exceptional role model for respect in Class 10!
Mr Nixon's Choice	Callum	Callum is someone who oozes respect. He respects his peers, adults in his life, his work and school property. He is somebody who does not need to develop this; he is a naturally respectful individual. He has been a great addition to our school and I can't wait to see him go from strength to strength as he moves into Year 4.

Just a ray of sunshine. So polite and respectful all the time and always has a smile on his face. Always gives a compliment too which makes my day!

The reason I am nominating Joe is that I genuinely believe that he shows all of the school values. When I come across Joe normally around the corridors he always has exceptional manners, whether this is just a simple please or thank you, or when you pass him in the corridor he will always say hello. When Joe comes to collect house points he doesn't just walk in and collect them, he always puts effort into making a conversation and always tries to make you laugh. I will often see Joe holding doors open for other people or helping the younger children. Never have I seen Joe treat anybody with disrespect and I believe he really does want what is best for those around him. Seeing Joe around the school really can put a smile on your face and he really does bring the positive energy that every school wants.

In every interaction at lunchtime, Joseph has impeccable manners and always looks to help out. His mature nature means that he always asks how we are and has a small bit of discussion with staff too.
